Steps to Prevent Heatstroke

On hot days, the temperature inside your car can reach deadly levels in just 10 minutes. Heatstroke begins when the core body temperature reaches about 104 degrees. A core body temperature of about 107 degrees is lethal.

Help prevent heatstroke with these simple steps:

1. Never leave a child or pet in a car unattended—even if the windows are partially open or the engine is running, and the air conditioning is on.
2. Make a habit of looking in the car—front and back—before locking the door and walking away.
3. If you see a child alone in a locked car immediately call 911.
4. If you are waiting in a vehicle, make sure windows are down. If you feel like you are getting over heated get out of the car, drink water and find a shady place to cool down.
